

Estate Names on St. Croix

During the Danish period, St. Croix contained about 250 plantations or estates, which were divided into nine quarters.

In the list below the spelling of estate names has been standardized in accordance with the most recent names assigned in the Danish land tax records (matriklerne). For the most part, these names correspond with those found on P. L. Oxholm's official cadastral map of 1794. See Map of St. Croix by Peter Lotharius Oxholm, printed 1799. Rigsarkivet, Chamber of Revenue: Maps and drawings \(1600 - 1920\), no. 337-7.

Estate naming became common during the 1760s. However, it was not until 1803 that names began appearing in the land tax records. Occasionally, the official name of 1803 changed in the course of the nineteenth century. In such instances, the list shows the 1803 name, followed by the new name.

The following list of St. Croix Estate Names was originally compiled by historian George Tyson from the land tax records and pre-1803 documents.
